17th August 2024

Topic :- Public Speaking

Name of the Student :- Tejavath Sravani

Group :- M2C - II year

Public Speaking :- Public speaking can help us develop critical thinking and problem-solving skills. It can also give us a competitive edge in the job market, as effective communication is a key skill for professional success. Be attentive to the audience's nonverbal reactions and respond to them, ask questions and use your voice effectively. The most important things to remember are pronunciation, pace, pause, punch, power, passion and posture while communicating. The speaker must be clear, cohesive, complete, concise and concrete. Research and preparation is must. Voice control, Body language, Delivery audience relations should be in control.
