

International Relations

- Meaning, Nature, Scope, Importance of International Relations
- Rise of Sovereign State System
- Characteristics of Sovereign State System

HEART STRUCTURE AND FUNCTION

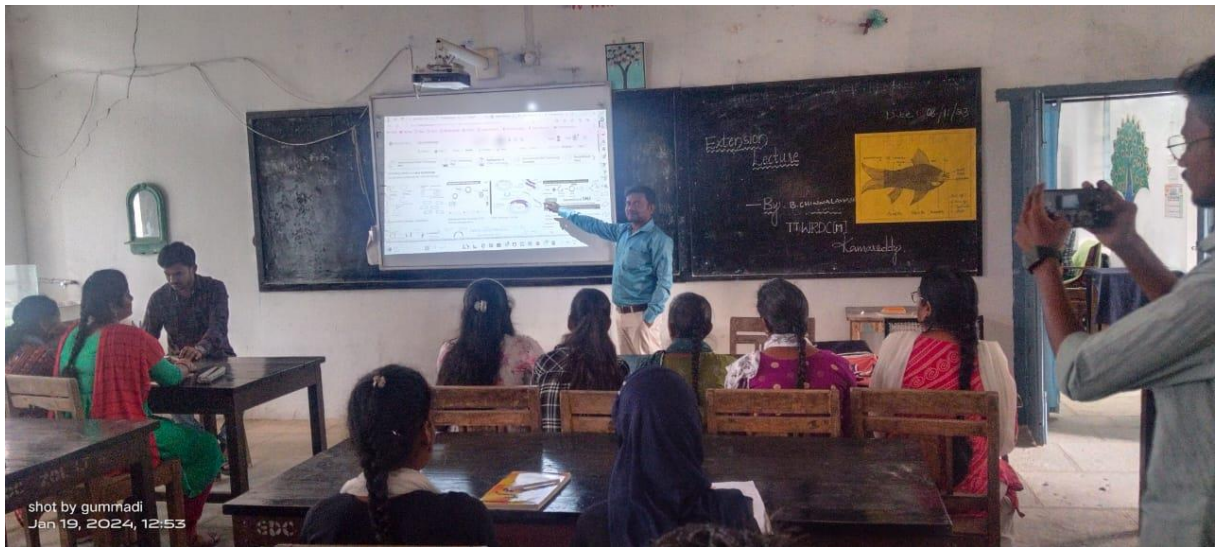

BY

K.MANO HAR M.Sc.,B.Ed

DEGREE LECTURER IN ZOOLOGY

TTWRDC(BOYS) KAMAREDDY

Indian Foreign Policy: Objectives, Features

Determinants of Indian Foreign Policy:

The important determinants that have played a critical role in shaping the Indian foreign policy over the years include geography, history, culture, political system, international relations, ideology and external environment.

Geography:

Geographical factors refer to the strategic, geographic position, size, landmass, and resources that influence the foreign policy of a country. India's unique position in terms of geographic location, weather, climate, water bodies and landmass.

